Lunations and Long-term Aspects

The New Moon this month is in Sagittarius on December 5, your 10th House of status, reputation, public image and career which should bring something new your way in this part of your life, even if it's not earth shattering. Sagittarius is a fellow Mutable sign, however, which means it's squaring your Sun, especially those of you born the first week of March. If that's the case, it may bring a challenge as well, but bear in mind that challenges properly handled bring numerous benefits. The Sun/Moon system is in favorable aspect to dignified Saturn in Libra, further implying that something beneficial will come of it but it will require hard work and dedication as well as some good ol' fashioned discipline to do so. It may possibly involve a change of course or direction, very likely in your attitude.

Those of you born between March 13 - 19 will encounter some resistance which could comprise major disruptions or unexpected situations that throw one speedbump after another in your path. Again, hanging in there and dealing with it are the key. There are favorable vibes out there to do some serious networking and uncovering some interesting information which will present an opportunity to move toward a new goal. There's the possibility for something nice to come your way with regard to higher learning or possibly even foreign travel or a relocation, though maybe it will simply be some positive experience that will affect your beliefs and expectations.

The Full Moon on December 21 is also a lunar eclipse. This occurs in fellow Mutable Sign, Gemini, and will herald an ending or culmination with regard to something which involves your home environment in some way. It could also relate to your early life or even your specific culture, such as leaving it behind. This lunation creates a T-square with your Sun if your birthday is between March 18 - 20, implying a challenge again, so you may be a bit inclined to feel picked on this month. The bad news about this eclipse is that Mercury is retrograde, that nasty phenomenon we all dread. Just be grateful that for you it will only last three weeks while those with birthdays that fall during that period will be stuck with it all year in their solar return. For everyone else it will largely be in effect until the next Lunar Eclipse which will be next June, though this will not be as obvious as those with it in their solar return unless the eclipse falls on a very sensitive part of your chart. Expect to encounter some conflicts between home and family versus career with some personal and financial influences as well. Your sign ruler, Neptune, will give you a helping hand via some intense insights or inspiration, however, and help you regroup or redo anything that requires it.

Short-term Aspects

December 1: Watch for an opportunity to come your way through a friend or a group affiliation.

December 2: If you're still trying to figure out what you want to be when you grow up, you may encounter a few clues today.

December 3: Expect the unexpected, particularly in the form of something that affects your reputation.

December 5: You're naturally intuitive, but this is a day when you'll be able to uncover all sorts of information which was previously buried, making this an excellent day for a treasure hunt. New Moon today in Sagittarius as described above.

December 7: Opportunities related to an intense experience will affect your status in some way. If you've been wanting to do something which required more resources than you have on hand, an investor or loan may be possible.

December 8: An excellent day for group discussions on deep, penetrating subjects, the kind you love best. Transformational insights are possible. Mars goes into Capricorn, sign of its exaltation, providing additional steam for your current ambitions.

December 10: New information will come your way which strikes a favorable cord with your beliefs, though you're likely to be rethinking a few of them along the way.

Mercury goes retrograde until December 30. If you don't have your holiday shopping done yet, be aware that anything mechanical or electronic that you buy now is likely to not operate properly, so stick to ties and perfume for the ones left on your list.

December 13: This is likely to be a very interesting day, particularly with regard to any groups or organizations you hang with. Expect to see a power play or two, perhaps even your own. You will have plenty of energy to make major changes of a transformational nature which will have long-reaching effects. This is an excellent day to get something done you've been wanting to tackle but lacked the energy or confidence to do so.

December 15: There's a lot of cosmic help to expand your personal interests or horizons. Enjoy the ride.

December 16: You are very likely to be in the spotlight today. Regardless of the reason, bear in mind that no publicity is bad publicity.

December 18: An excellent day to share your vision with others and provide inspiration. A sudden change in your personal beliefs are possible as well as unexpected events with regard to legal matters, foreign travel, higher learning, relocations or other cultures. A day which should be packed with surprises and bring a lot of personal attention your way.

December 19: Mercury backs into Sagittarius today. Remember this is a favorable time to re-do, re-think, edit, revise or repair something. You shouldn't have any trouble figuring out something in one or more of those categories.

December 20: Make sure you don't blurt something out today which doesn't reflect favorably on you. Unexpected news of a public nature that takes you by surprise is also possible. Ponder upon it for some useful inspiration.

December 21: Full Moon in Gemini today as described above. This is a favorable day to promote yourself, provided you don't say anything stupid, which could turn against you. The Sun enters Capricorn, bringing emphasis to interactions with your friends and group affiliations.

December 22: Putting your dreams out before the world are likely to represent a challenge, but you should have plenty of energy to give it a try.

December 23: Annoying restrictions may appear today which are related somehow to your beliefs or world view. Make sure you understand their source.

December 26: An excellent time to get together with old friends and reminisce on the past. If there's something you've been wondering about, you're likely to find out the answer.

December 27: If you're encountering any obstacles today, retrace your steps either physically or mentally and keep your eyes open.

December 28: Challenging past opinions or beliefs and seeking anything you missed before are favored.

December 29: Pursuing a goal or group activities may encounter some challenges that give you a lot to think about.

December 30: Mercury goes direct, just in time for the New Year.
