Lunations and Long-term Aspects

The New Moon this month on the 15th occurs in Pisces, your 2nd House of financial matters, possessions, needs and pleasures. A new Moon typically brings something new your way, so keep an eye out. Pisces is quite loaded with planets which will further strengthen the lunation, such as a conjunction between Mercury and Uranus that also happens to be only a little more than a degree away from the Sun/Moon. Mercury brings news or events and Uranus brings surprises, the unexpected, and disruptions, so this looks like it will bring unexpected news. Jupiter is in Pisces as well, watching from afar, but will still probably lend some of his expansive talents to the situation.

Retrograde Saturn in Libra is opposing that New Moon Quartet. Libra is your 9th House of beliefs, expectations, higher education, relocation, cultural matters, and long-distance travel as well as religion and politics. Saturn retrograde in that venue will be working on your subconscious relative to something in that part of your life that needs restructuring. In other words, if you have any old baggage in this part of your life, Saturn is going to try and get you to unload it so you can move on, unencumbered. This opposition is a bit wide and out of sign, so its influence is likely to be slight. If your birthday is within a day or so of January 22, Saturn is trining your Natal Sun, which should ultimately turn out to be very much to your advantage.

Mars will be out of retrograde a few days prior to the New Moon and he's throwing some assistance into the mix. Leo is your 7th House of relationships, implying that someone with whom you have a one-on-one relationship may lend some assistance. Remember that relationships in the astrological context include your significant other, close friends and relatives, business partners, professionals with whom you interact such as your accountant or financial advisor, and also competitors. So look to one of these folks to help mitigate any challenges that come your way that appear to be of the financial nature.

The Full Moon on March 29 is in Libra, your aforementioned 9th House of beliefs and so forth. A Full Moon usually hails a culmination or ending which can also express as the end of one phase and shift to another. This could easily tie into Saturn's work though Saturn may not reveal his motives until the end of May, when he comes out of retrograde. Nonetheless, I'd give you dollars to donuts that they'll be related in one way or another. Pluto has his hand in this one, even though it's a bit wide as well, and he's in your 12th House digging up things from your past that need to be exposed to the light and subsequently healed. This is your woo-woo house of spiritual enlightenment, inspiration, dreams, seclusion, hidden enemies, self-undoing, confinement and institutions. Finding some time for meditation will be something you should consider making a part of your regular routine to help with this process.

The good news with this lunation is primarily for those of you with a birthday within a few days of January 30th since the Full Moon will form a Triangle of Potential with your Natal Sun. This puts you in the driver's seat for handling whatever situation the Full Moon has in mind. This action is going to lie primarily on the mental plane and relate to possible enlightenment that will trigger new thoughts and ideas that will in turn influence your core beliefs, or some other 9th House matter as noted earlier. Some inspiration may come from a female friend or neighbor, but it isn't likely to go over as well with someone of the male gender. Both have some valid points which you should analyze with your Air Sign logic and make up your own mind what the best recourse is.

Short-term Aspects

March 1: Mercury goes into Pisces, opening up communication and information relative to your 2nd House of finances and possessions. Adjustments are called for with regard to a relationship, so pay attention to what those around you are saying.

March 2: News or information that will further reinforce a course change is likely today.

March 3: Expect the unexpected today, perhaps related to a female in your life that has the potential to affect your finances.

March 4: Something from the past or that has been buried for a while may surface and also relate to your finances in some manner.

March 7: Venus goes into Aries, your 3rd House of thoughts, ideas, siblings, and neighbors, bringing her blessings to that venue. Communications with the opposite sex, particularly those close to you, are very favorable. Significant news or information relative to your finances or possessions is likely as well.

March 9: Find some quiet time today to do some serious thinking about the situations around you and potential solutions.

March 10: Mars comes out of retrograde, opening the way to complete any unfinished business with regard to one or more relationships.

March 11: A female from your past can be a good sounding board today and perhaps provide some inspiration.

March 14: More information comes to light today, giving you more things to consider.

March 15: New Moon today as described above.

March 17: More illumination relative to that unexpected event is on the way, that may prove to be another disruption. Mercury goes into Aries, enhancing your thought processes and also speeding up the pace of your daily activities. Expect a lot of errands and running around, possibly on behalf of someone else as opposed to your own interests.

March 18: Watch for thoughts or ideas that will have significant impact on how you see the world.

March 20: The Sun goes into Aries, bringing emphasis to your thoughts, ideas, neighbors, and siblings. Information relative to something previously hidden or buried is likely to come to light.

March 21: Good communications with those close to you are possible today so if you have something important to discuss, take advantage of these favorable vibes. They may ultimately have a very profound affect on you.

March 22: Someone close to you may extend an opportunity your way. This could relate to something as dramatic as a relocation or going back to school or even a legal matter though it may simply have an impact on your beliefs and expectations.

March 25: More enlightenment related to the past is out there today.

March 29: Full Moon today as described above.

March 31: Venus goes into Taurus, bringing her blessings to your home environment for the next few weeks. Adjustments or a course change will become apparent but the inspiration will be there to help determine which way to go.
