Lunations and Long-Term Aspects

The New Moon on November 5 is in fellow Water Sign, Scorpio, your 5th House of creativity, ego definition, speculation, children (the ultimate speculation) and romance (another speculation). Watch for something new of a favorable nature to come your way in this part of your life, especially those of you born within a day or so of July 6. Those of you born between July 16 - 20 can expect unexpected news that relates to your beliefs and expectations in some way or perhaps a legal matter, returning to school or even long distance travel or relocation.

One thing to watch for as well is the effects of Venus retrograde. Venus is in your 5th House along with the New Moon and Mercury where she may be stirring up a side of you that you generally keep beneath the surface. The indicators in the New Moon show some deep, transformational changes are in work which have the potential for providing some significant enlightenment. If you've been confused or having an identify crisis, this implies you'll obtain some answers and learn more about yourself in the process. Personal growth is a factor with your view of the world likely to be affected as well. There's no telling what might facilitate this as it will depend on your individual natal chart and how these transits are lining up with it. With Pluto in your 7th House of relationships for the long-haul, that is likely to be a factor along with Saturn grinding away in your 4th House of home environment, indicating a generally serious atmosphere where responsibilities are in the forefront along with the possibility of limitations or restrictions.

The Full Moon on November 21 is in Taurus, your 11th House of goals, group interactions, networking, and friends. This will bring an ending, culmination or shift to a new phase regarding something in this part of your life with it likely to be most noticeable to those born within a day or so of July 22. New insights are coming, particularly if they weren't obvious before, and may present a bit of a challenge. Now is a time to reassess your goals as they relate to your home and relationship with family members within your same household. If your feelings toward anyone in this category has been somewhat darkened lately, this bodes well for some changes which will turn this around as you make a few adjustments that effect a change of direction. This won't necessarily be easy, but the results will be worth it.

Daily and Short-term Aspects

November 1: Being confronted with an issue that involves ethics in some way or a new evaluation of your beliefs and expectations is out there today. Take a close look at your relationships, particularly involving children, and what has influenced them that go way back to your own childhood.

November 4: Expect the unexpected today and avoid being defensive or refusing to acknowledge the implications. Examine your beliefs closely and don't trip over your ego.

November 5: New Moon in Scorpio as described above.

November 6: News or information your encounter today may not be accurate, perhaps downright deceptive. Turn up the gain on your Water Sign intuition to scope it out. You'll be surprised by what you discover if you avoid being defensive and ponder recent events in your household.

November 7: Venus retrograde backs into Libra, pushing her Warrior Goddess energy into your home environment. Don't be surprised if during this time you're in a somewhat dark mood until she returns to Scorpio on November 29. Neptune goes direct today as well which will help you see things with more clarity.

November 8: Mercury enters Sagittarius which will facilitate communications related to work, your health and service activities.

November 10: Continue to examine your close relationships and how your behavior enhances or detracts from them. Cancers are driven by emotion which sometimes keeps you from being objective, so work on seeing yourself as others do and whether it's benefiting you or not.

November 14: Household matters, particularly with regard to work or service, could result in some contention. This may not be anything outside the ordinary but it's likely to get you riled up whereas you'd usually take it in stride. You may feel overburdened with responsibility, particularly if you don't think anyone else is carrying their fair share.

November 15: Find some quiet time to ponder your core beliefs and whether your behavior reflects them or simply your emotions. In other words there are times when you care very much about someone yet don't treat them such that they'll know that.

November 17: Your thoughts and possibly your mouth will be busy today with regard to your thoughts on family members which may be less that kind. Don't say anything you'll regret. A calm discussion with regard to sharing responsibilities is favored, however.

November 18: Venus goes direct which will help you process your negative feelings and rectify the situations which put you there. Expect to take a while to get there with some confusion likely, especially if you let your ego get in the way. Being a bit rebellious is likely, but after you get past that take a good look at your attitude. Jupiter goes direct which will help you examine your beliefs and expectations more clearly for areas you can improve.

November 20: Arguments regarding work are likely. You are likely to be more aggressive than usual in your conversations, especially if you're angry about something already. Responsibilities are likely to still be the issue.

November 21: Full Moon in Taurus as described above.

November 22: The Sun enters Sagittarius bringing emphasis to your work, service, pets and health for the coming month.

November 25: News or information relative to work may clash with your expectations or you may have a difficult time expressing them, especially in the workplace.

November 27: Stay tuned today for new insights that have a strong impact on you as your beliefs or expectations are challenged.

November 29: Venus enters Scorpio which should help your attitude and outlook to improve, even though someone at work or your work itself may be not meeting your expectations.

November 30: Mercury enters Capricorn, a favorable transit for communications related to your relationships. These relationships include your close friends and relatives, significant other, business partners, competitors and open enemies.
