Lunations and Long-term Aspects

This month the New Moon is in your sign and will have even more impact for those of you born within a day or so of November 6. This due to the fact that for you folks this lunation will reflect on your Solar Return report, so its effects will hang in there for the next twelve months as well. Fortunately for you it's a relatively friendly one. The rest of you can look for influences in the same parts of your life but they probably won't be as dramatic. First of all, it's a favorable time to gather data, though you need to put your superior abilities of discernment to work because some of it may be inaccurate or possibly even deliberately deceptive, depending on its source.

Expect the unexpected, particularly with regard to things such as any speculations. Your children or romantic interests may be involved as well with possible ethics issues embedded within these themes. Your ego may be on the line in some way, also, so make sure you're not the perpetrator of any questionable dealings. Nonetheless, communications are favored for working things out, especially those of you born around November 18, but friction and annoyances can be expected along the way. Moving forward with anything related to your income, finances or possessions is mostly favored, though you may experience some breakdowns. In its worst manifestation you could feel as if your material wealth or possessions are under attack. Make sure you use this energy to your advantage, using the full assertive power of your ancient ruler, Mars.

Venus is still retrograde in your 1st house of personality, which could be stirring up a variety of issues; go here for more information on Venus RX. Retrograde motion can bring out the darker side of Venus, so you may react differently to personal situations. It's also a time for introspection, particularly with regard to your home environment, memories and family. If you've been too idealistic with regard to any of these areas it's time for a deep and probing reassessment which could lead to an ending or new beginning, which tend to run in pairs. Something new is typical of the New Moon, so keep an eye out for what it may be.

The Full Moon on November 21 occurs in your polar sign, Taurus, which will have the greatest affect on those of you born within a day or so of November 22. This is your 7th House of close relationships, which implies a culmination, ending or shift to a new phase with respect to someone close to you. This could be a close friend or relative, your significant other, a business partner, a competitor or someone who's openly hostile toward you. A change of direction is implied, perhaps at the spiritual level. By now Venus has come out of retrograde and is moving forward in your 12th House of inspiration, dreams, enlightenment, seclusion, institutions, hidden enemies and self undoing which implies that you will discover something new in this part of your life and perhaps a change of direction or adjustment, again related to a relationship as well as involving something unexpected or disruptive which will affect your beliefs or sense of trust in some way. If you've had your head in the clouds or perhaps the sand, not typical for a Scorpion but certainly possible, you may be forced to confront something you've been ignoring. Friction and a certain level of stress is likely but your insights when all is said and done will be quite educational.

Daily and Short-Term Aspects

November 1: Take a good hard look at yourself and any situations you're involved in for how your beliefs or ego may be affecting things. If this is not intuitively obvious, find some time to ponder it and you'll discover something you'd previously missed or didn't know. Scorpios can sniff out information better than anyone unless it's something you've been trying to ignore, particularly about yourself.

November 4: Expect the unexpected today either in the form of surprises events, disruptions, or disturbances which are likely to be quite personal in their effect. Understanding, perhaps at an entirely new level, is possible, especially if a relationship is involved with your children or romantic interests. Keep an eye on your ego and try to observe your own behavior as objectively as possible.

November 5: New Moon today in Scorpio as described above.

November 6: Keep your eyes and ears open today with your discernment ramped up to its highest level. You're likely to encounter some surprising news, though it may not necessarily be unfavorable. News, information or insights which relate to your sense of responsibility or delays in achieving your dreams is available if you watch for it.

November 7: Retrograde Venus backs into Libra, your 12th House of dreams, hidden enemies, seclusion and self-undoing, driving her influence to that part of your life. Neptune goes direct, helping bring inspiration and enlightenment to your conscious mind.

November 8: Mercury enters Sagittarius, facilitating information related to your income, finances or possessions.

November 10: Another good day for pondering anything that's bothering you for deeper meaning and facts you may have missed. Situations with siblings or your neighbors may be involved.

November 14: Your dreams and financial progress may clash or bring a challenge today. Watch your back as well. Possible opportunities to make some progress are there, but you'll have to look beneath the surface to find them.

November 15: Find some quiet time today to give yourself some credit while still taking note of anything you can do to effect self-improvement. Examine your beliefs and expectations carefully.

November 17: News related to your finances, possessions, needs or pleasures will get your attention. Look beneath the surface and to its origin to gain further understanding of the situation.

November 18: Venus goes direct, externalizing her energy such that you can start discerning her message from this retrograde period. If you've been deceiving yourself or someone else has, something may come to light unexpectedly which brings your attention to it. Jupiter goes direct as well, bringing luck and expansion as you embrace some new beliefs or expectations, see yourself in a new way, or learn something of note from one of your children or romantic interest.

November 20: Moving forward with ideas related to your material possessions or needs is favored as well as communicating with others in that regard. Make sure you're not perceived as aggressive as you express your views. Rather, take action in an assertive way while not stepping on others. Be careful traveling today and with regard to your communications generally. Make sure you don't become your own worst enemy.

November 21: Full Moon as described above.

November 22: The Sun leaves Scorpio and enters Sagittarius today, bringing emphasis to your finances, income, possessions, needs and pleasures. Use this energy to address anything that needs attention in this part of your life.

November 25: Not a good day for speculations. Measure twice, cut once.

November 27: Sudden enlightenment is possible with regard to a household situation or how to attain closure on something.

November 29: Venus comes back into Scorpio which is somewhat good for you provided you don't use the additional charm in a vengeful or devious way. Don't trip over your ego, either, especially with regard to your children, lovers, or speculations.

November 30: Mercury enters Capricorn, facilitating information and ideas, activities with your siblings and neighbors, and lots of local activities.
