This month brings a lot of action at home as well as a lot of activity on the job with numerous things on the way that will affect your ego, children, creativity, lovelife or various other enjoyable endeavors. Also worth noting are some long-term aspects that involve the outer planets, which comprise Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. These planets move slowly and thus have a slow and persistent influence on what's going on in our lives. The Sun and Moon as well as the inner planets such as Mercury, Venus and Mars drive the daily occurrences that make up the pieces of those long term changes and evolution in our lives. The more aware we are of these influences, the more we can work with them to assure we acquire the growth we're supposed to and fulfill our individual missions for this lifetime on Earth.

One of these in effect this month is an opposition between Saturn and Uranus. Saturn is in Virgo, your 2nd House of possessions, finance, and pleasures and Uranus is in Pisces, your 8th House of transformation, other people's resources, sex, and death. Oppositions that typically involve polar signs on the Zodiac will pit issues against one another that are similar, though one is on a higher evolutionary plane than the other. In this case the 2nd House includes those material things that relate to you personally versus the 8th House, which includes things that usually involve someone else and can influence your personal growth. Saturn represents responsibility, obligations, delays, and authority figures (including our father), so placed in your 2nd House of possessions, this relates to your responsibility toward your finances and treat your possessions, including your body. Uranus, planet of sudden change, unexpected events, rebellion, and disruption in your 8th will create a variety of events and experiences that will change forever how you view just about everything. At this point, the emphasis will be on your finances and so forth. This influence will peak on November 4, then due to retrograde motion, will be exact again on February 5, 2009 and then again on September 15, 2009. During this time this is an area that the Universe wants you to learn about.

About the same time that this peaks for the first time, Saturn and Uranus will form a T-Square with Venus, which will be in Sagittarius, your 5th House of children, creativity, romance, ego, entertainment, speculation, and so forth. Picture this like a see-saw with Saturn on one end, Uranus on the other, and Venus as the fulcrum, stabilizing the other two. Venus is a benefic planet as a rule, particularly in your 5th House, which includes some pretty nice areas of life. She may tend to make you a bit too indulgent, however, which is where the oscillating may originate between responsibility and the unexpected. As the ruler of Taurus she influences our finances and as the ruler of Libra she influences our relationships, so love or money are likely to come into play in some way and of course both of these tie into the 5th House in the speculation and romantic sectors. If you have children, they may be the key components. There are infinite possibilities in how this will play out that will be entirely unique to you, but you should be able to recognize something that ties these areas together that's in work in your life not only this month, but will continue for almost a year. There are some important lessons for you to learn in all this, such that they'll have a transformational effect, so pay attention and give conscious thought to what you're supposed to be getting out of it.

Another long-term influence will come from Pluto, who once again is moving into Capricorn. If this sounds familiar it's because he did this back in January, but due to retrograde action he did an about-face and returned to Sagittarius to wrap up some unfinished business. This would have occurred in your 5th House as well, perhaps setting up whatever is on the agenda for the next year. On November 27 when he moves into Capricorn, your 6th House of work, health and pets, he will be forcing a close examination of this area of your life. On November 4 he'll still be in Sagittarius, however, so when Mercury throws a sextile his way it will bring some information your way that pertains to your home environment in some way. There's also some chance it will relate to a past life in some manner. One somewhat far-out possibility would be hearing from a past or ex-lover or spouse or having some new perspectives on something that relates to them in some way.

Right around this same time, you may realize that you've been delusional or not facing reality regarding something that involves your relationship with those in your immediate household. Remember this is working in concert with everything noted earlier regarding responsibility, finances, other people's resources, and transformation change. Something good should happen right around this same time that will ultimately improve those relationships, so it should have a positive outcome. Encounters with the opposite sex will be more stimulating than usual on November 7th, give or take a day. You may also enjoy a surge of creativity of some description.

Around November 10 - 11 expect further emphasis on your creativity which will be directed toward your work and financial responsibility and have a strong impact on you. Your health could also be affected, though it's likely to be in a positive way. If nothing else, this would be a good time to start a fitness program as there are numerous opportunities for change out there for the taking in the work/health arena. Encountering a former love is also possible at this time, or even a surge of memories about a woman who had a strong influence on you. This is also a time when reality checks and identifying areas where you've either been deceived or deceiving yourself with relationships will come out. The Full Moon on November 13 in your 10th House of career and reputation will close out something in this area.

Between November 16 - 17 surprising news is on the way. It looks positive from various angles that will affect your homelife, job or health situation, your finances, and perhaps also involve a loan, windfall, or even an inheritance. If you've been looking for a new job, things may finally come together at this time and help resolve any challenges you've had on the homefront. Again, if reality hasn't been a major player, he'll be making a fair amount of noise at this time. On November 21 move positive occurrences on the job or health front are coming as well, though it will involve an increase in responsibility as well. A flood of creative ideas is possible on the 25th, though this could also be manifested as lots of phone calls from your children and/or lovers.

The New Moon on the 27th will further enhance this area with something new, with a bit of luck related to work coming on the 28th which could even involve an award or bonus of some description. A burst of energy to put any new ideas into action will be your on the 29th with the possibility for even more good luck at work and with your finances on the 30th.

This month should keep you hopping and it looks like the majority of activity will be very positive. Little annoyances will be around like they always are, but for the most part things are moving in a very positive direction. Bear in mind those long-term aspects, any lessons the Universe has on your curriculum to learn and the benefits that will be yours for being a diligent, attentive, and willing student.
